Her only family is a paranoid mother who believes there's a race of supernatural beings out there actively searching for Callie. A race who could destroy Earth if they get their hands on her. Callie's never seen one thing to suggest there's any truth to her mom's insane ramblings, and at the age of eighteen now, she's grown numb to her reality - she's never going to have a normal life. That is, until they move to New Orleans. The moment Callie steps foot into the Quarter, hears the jazz music, feels the soul of the city, the cold shell she's built to protect herself starts to thaw. Then they come for her. Turns out her mom's stories are quite real, and whatever happens, Callie's empty world will never be the same again.

snarly attitude. But, attitude aside, he draws her into a fantasy world, one filled with family and friendship and ... the home she's always craved. Her time in Royale and with Xander. She will stay until the very end, though. If there's one thing that she's determined to prevent, it's Laous getting his hands on the starlight stone. A stone which is keeping two worlds alive and functioning. A happily ever after might not be in the cards for her, but she's determined to make it happen for her friends. Even if it's the last thing she does.

Only a single line separates her side of the street from the elites', and she's crossing it. Captured and held by Lexen and his brothers, she learns the rules are in place for a very good reason. There's a secret world hidden in this small town which goes far beyond the one she knows and understands. A world not for humans.
